The Law Library staff is not authorized to practice law but offers library services to assist professionals in their research efforts. We are willing to assist, as directed by the user, to the extent of our mutual time constraints and subject to your cost restrictions.

However, you are, and will remain, the person solely responsible for the quality and quantity of the research regardless of the amount of assistance we provide. You, not the Law Library, are responsible for any advice, counsel and conduct with respect to your clients(s).
